

05 Dec 2017 | News

QUOTED. Dec. 5, 2017. Dan Heller.

by

Check out what Dan Heller, cofounder and CEO of Two Pore Guys, had to say about the firm's digital, hand-held single-molecule biosensor that detects molecules of any type, including viruses, bacteria, antibodies and pathogens.

"People are very interested in health and health monitoring, but also monitoring their pets and their food and their environment. People want to know what's in things, so our device is very capable of detecting what it is you want to know about yourself and the things around you. I think the technology, [our] reader device, can be as commonly done as people use apps on a smartphone." – Dan Heller, cofounder and CEO, Two Pore Guys

> Find out more: Start-Up Spotlight: Two Pore Guys, Gearing Up To Market Unique Handheld Nanopore Sensor After Inking Agreement With Monsanto

Click here for a free trial of Medtech Insight