

06 Dec 2017 | News

Device Week, Dec. 6, 2017 – How Investigator Familiarity Breeds Recalls, Poor Quality

by Shawn M. Schmitt

On this week's podcast, we highlight an eye-opening study that shows that the chummier a device-maker is with US FDA investigators, the more likely it is that those firms will experience quality system troubles and face costly product recalls.

Listen to the podcast via the player below:

Click here to explore this interactive content online ✎

Medtech Insight article addressed in this episode:

- BFFs With FDA? Repeat Visits From Investigators Can Lead To Poor Device Quality, Recalls, Study Suggests