

14 Dec 2017 | News

Quoted. Dec 14, 2017. JC Scott.

by

Check out what top AdvaMed lobbyist JC Scott has to say about the effort to fit an extended five-year moratorium on the device excise tax into Congress' end-of-year rush.

"From what I've heard from our companies, and it's a little different for each of them, it's really untenable to work around one or two years. As you think about the timeframes they have to work around, that's when you land in the neighborhood of five years." – JC Scott, chief advocacy officer and head of external affairs, AdvaMed

> Find out more: In Last Ditch Effort, Lawmakers Propose Five-Year Device Tax Moratorium

Click here for a free trial of Medtech Insight