

30 Apr 2018 | News

QUOTED. April 30, 2018. Robert Kerwin.

by

The Medical Imaging and Technology Alliance is leading an effort toward shared quality management system standards for both OEMs and third parties servicing medical equipment. See one critique of the plan from third-party servicer rep Robert Kerwin here.

How does one fully meet the calibration, equipment maintenance and other requirements of the standard, if cooperation is not provided?” Kerwin asked. “Should standards be used to exclude competition in the marketplace?” – Robert Kerwin, general counsel, International Association of Medical Equipment Remarketers and Servicers

- Find out more: MITA Seeks Third-Party Servicer Buy-In For Quality Standards Pending FDA Report

Click here for a free trial of Medtech Insight