

30 Nov 2018 | Analysis

Device Week, Nov. 30, 2018 – Bioprinting Is Moving From Far-Fetched To Reality; 'Femtech' Investment Heats Up

by Reed Miller

In this edition of Device Week, Medtech Insight managing editor Marion Webb discusses the ongoing research that could lead to 3D-printing of human replacement organs and reporter Catherine Longworth highlights the developments in "femtech," medical technology primarily or exclusively for female patients.

Listen to the podcast via the player below:

Click here to explore this interactive content online

Articles addressing topics discussed in this episode:

- Market Intel: Cornea, Bio-Drugs, Artificial Hips On Track For 3D Printing
- International Women's Day: Medtech's Women Movers & Shakers
- Scrip Asks... What Are The Biggest Barriers To Women In Leadership Roles?
- Atlantic Therapeutics Appoints Former Zeltiq CEO As Chairman
- Start-Up Spotlight: Atlantic Therapeutics, Stimulating The Stress Incontinence Market With Vaginal Mesh Alternative

From the editors of Clinica

2