

29 Jan 2019 | News

QUOTED. Jan. 29, 2019. Manfred Beeres.

by

BVMed, the German medtech industry association, remains concerned about the impact stricter regulation in Europe will have on the ability of small medtech companies to stay afloat. See what the group's Manfred Beeres has to say here.

"We seem to be losing the balance between patient safety on one side, and innovation/innovation potential and progress on the other. If we lose the balance, EU SMEs will suffer. And then there could be an episode of industry consolidation, and speed of innovation would suffer." – Manfred Beeres, communications director, BVMed

- Find out more: Medtech Under Pressure? German Industry Urges Realistic Patient Safety And Innovation Balance

Click here for a free trial of Medtech Insight