

11 Nov 2020 | News

QUOTED. 11 November 2020. Grady Hannah.

by

The US FDA has authorized Nightware, a digital therapeutic that helps reduce sleep disruption in patients with PTSD or nightmare disorder. Nightware Inc. CEO Grady Hannah praised the move.

“In addition to a lack of approved treatment for PTSD-associated nightmares, the FDA’s blessing establishes that this is a serious public health issue and confirms the clinical benefit at a low level of risk for users.” – Grady Hannah, CEO, Nightware Inc.

- Find out more: Sleep Well: FDA Authorizes Digital Therapeutic To Treat Nightmares

Click here for a free trial of Medtech Insight