Chad Reynolds of RMQ+ spoke to Medtech Insight about practical strategies for managing economic operators efficiently and with a view to long-term compliance.

“With the stakes so high, it is in the manufacturer’s interests to support [economic operators] with their new responsibilities, whether to understand what they are, or to develop appropriate processes. Manufacturers may also need to help determine how to establish quality agreements between different economic operators, who are also serving each other.” – Chad Reynolds, director of solutions delivery, RQM+
